TERMS AND CONDITIONS

This is a public and mail bid auction conducted by Classical Numismatic Auctions, Ltd., a division of Classical Numismatic Group, Inc. and the following terms and conditions should be read by all interested parties before bidding in this sale.

1. The property listed in this catalog is offered for sale by CNA, Ltd. as agents for various owners and other consignors. We reserve the right to withdraw any lot before the close of the sale.
2. There is a 10% buyer's fee that will be added to all invoices at the close of the sale.
3. All coins are guaranteed genuine and as described based on the most current information available to the cataloguer. Grading is a subjective art. Every effort has been made to be conservative in our grading. Please note that an auction sale is not an approval sale. Lots examined prior to the sale may not be returned for any reason except authenticity.
4. Terms are for cash, with invoices being due and payable immediately upon receipt. Payment by check must be made in US funds and drawn on a United States bank. Visa and Mastercard may be used to pay your bill. However, a 3.5% surcharge is made for the use of your credit card. (Our cost from the bank.).
5. Bidders not known to us must provide us with satisfactory credit references. Minors are forbidden from bidding without a parent's signature on the bid sheet.
6. Bid in even dollar amounts. Mail Bidder Protection. You may submit bids with confidence. Where competition permits, your bids will be executed at 10% over the next highest bid. Please note, that most bids below estimate are rarely reduced, due to heavy competition. If you bid over estimate, chances are that your bids will be reduced. In the case of tie bids - the bid received earliest wins. Bid by lot number. No lots will be broken.
7. A word on Reserves. If a lot is reserved, it will not be in excess of the estimate. However, please note that bids that are below 60% of the estimate have little or no chance of winning, or being executed. Check your bid sheets carefully. The seller cannot assume responsibility for errors made by bidders.
8. Sales tax and postage are added to all invoices where appropriate.
9. Prices Realized are published shortly after the sale and mailed to all bidders who have participated in the sale.
10. If you bid in this sale, you accept the terms as outlined above. Any legal disputes that might arise will be handled in the courts of Lancaster County, Pennsylvania.

GOOD LUCK and remember to mail your bid sheets early. This sale occurs on December 4, 1990. Bids sheets must be received by December 3, 1990.

The Kerry Keith Wetterstrom Collection of Roman Egyptian Bronzes. Part II

Introduction

After Augustus defeated Mark Antony and Cleopatra at the Battle of Actium in 31 BC and the subsequent deaths of this historical couple in 30 BC, he made Egypt a Roman province but with some provisions that greatly differed from the normal. Augustus effectively secluded Egypt from the rest of the Roman empire by such measures as not allowing the members of the Senate to enter the country without the emperor's permission, and a "viceroy" that ruled the country with far greater authority than the governors of other Roman provinces. Augustus believed this to be necessary in order to insure that Egypt's valuable food-harvest, of which the city of Rome itself greatly depended on, would not be jeopardized. He believed that Caesar had blundered when leaving Egypt in a semi-independent state of government and rule.

Augustus and his successors subsequently isolated Egypt's economy, and a secondary result of these events was the development of a coinage that combined facets of the cultures of the Greeks, Romans, and the native Egyptians. This, alone, makes the Alexandrian coinage (as it is commonly called in deference to the mint city of Alexandria) a fascinating subject to study and collect. As the development of the coinage progressed for Roman Egypt, the mint officials and die-engravers at Alexandria were given much latitude in their choice of reverse designs and motifs.

The evolution of the Alexandrian denominational system is rather convoluted, and will only be briefly discussed in this context. After his defeat of Antony and Cleopatra, Augustus followed the Ptolemaic coinage system for a time, and bronze coins dated before his assumption of the title Augustus are of the same size and weight as the issues of Cleopatra (and likewise bear the marks of value of Π(80) and M(40) drachmae). Until 20 AD the Romans retained the Ptolemaic silver coinage as legal tender, and did not issue any silver at Alexandria. Due to the "closed economy" of Egypt, neither Roman nor provincial issues were permitted to circulate there. Then Tiberius introduced the billon tetradrachm with a silver content approximately that of the Roman denarius, and it was equated in value with the denarius and the Ptolemaic tetradrachm (which was, indeed, nothing more than billon itself by the time of Cleopatra). Officially, this new billon tetradrachm was valued at six obols per drachm, but private business used a 6 to 7 1/4 obol per drachm standard as papyri records indicate.

After the assumption of his new title, Augustus issued bronze on the old Attic standard with a bronze drachm of six obols (although, he did not actually issue any drachmae himself). The new bronze issues continued with slight modifications in size and weight until the reign of Nero. Nero added two new denominations -- the drachm and hemidrachm. Since Nero's drachm was approximately the same size and weight as the Roman sestertius, they have traditionally been equated. The question of whether this is a valid assumption since the Alexandrian system of coinage was "totally fiduciary" must remain debatable, and the exact identification of the various Alexandrian bronze issues is indefinite; but by convention the denominations of bronze coinage issued in Roman Egypt are the drachm, hemidrachm, diobol, obol, dichalkon, and chalkon. The bronze coinage, as a whole, was minted regularly until the reign of Marcus Aurelius when production was greatly diminished, and from that point on, it became sporadic and usually commemorative in nature. The "drachm" of Aurelian and Vaballathus (lot 155) was the last bronze denomination minted by the Alexandrian mint before Diocletian's reform of the Roman monetary system.

Alexandrian coinage is dated based on the Egyptian calendar, rather than the Roman, which means that the "new year" began on August 29, and the Emperor dated his second and subsequent regnal years using this date. In other words, if an Emperor came to power on July 1 and ceased to rule the Empire on October 1 of the same year, then he still had two regnal years in Egypt. Basically, this means that one can collect Alexandrian coins by year for each issuing Emperor (allowing for the fact that the Alexandrian mint produced coins only when they were needed).

On the coinage, we encounter two representations for "year." The Greek word "ETOYC" for year in the genitive case is used infrequently, most often the symbol "L" is used to represent "year." "L" is a "development of a conventional sign, taken from the demotic script, where it means 'year;' or, perhaps less likely, it is a reduced form of the first letter of 'ETOYC'." These two representations for "year" are always found with the corresponding Greek numeral in abbreviated or word-form.

The obverse design of Alexandrian coinage was always a bust of the current ruling emperor (or a member of his family, a secondary ruler, or a favored associate such as Antinous under Hadrian) with the inscription in Greek -- an attribute common to all the coins in the "Greek Imperial" series. It is the "rich variation of reverse types" that have made the series popular with collectors, and this variation is most explicit on the largest denomination, the drachm. It is this large bronze coin that I have centered my own collecting interests around, and I have developed a particular fondness and appreciation for this "poor cousin" of the Roman sestertius!

In particular, I concentrated on the various "series" of drachmae struck by Pius including the "Labors of Herakles," the "Zodiac" series, and other mythological issues. I tried to acquire all of the different years and sub-varieties that were issued in the "Labors" and "Zodiac" series, and I believe that the present group is one of the most complete to be ever offered in a public auction sale! In addition, I concentrated on the so-called "Nome coinage of Alexandria" which offers one of the most challenging and rewarding areas, in general, to collect and study!

I would like to take this opportunity to thank the members of the dealer community for their assistance, guidance and loyal efforts in helping to assemble this collection, but in particular, these individuals should be singled out: Dennis Devine, Victor England, Frank L. Kovacs, Herbert J. Kreindler, Brian Kritt, Dennis Kroh and Edward J. Waddell. In addition, a special thank you to Mr. Karol Stoker of Boulder, Colorado who first introduced me to the fascinating subject of ancient coinage; to Robert W. Hoge, my friend, mentor, and the estimable curator of the ANA Museum, for his valued instruction and guidance as I pursued my interest in the coinage of Roman Egypt; to Carl W. A. Carlson for his generosity in sharing all of his research and materials with me on the "Zodiac" and "Labors of Herakles" series, etc.; and to Wayne G. Sayles for his insights and guidance on various questions proposed in the Epilogue. Of course, any errors in this catalogue remain my own. Finally, I gratefully acknowledge the assistance and indulgence of Victor England, Eric J. McFadden and the staff of CNG, Inc. in the preparation of this catalogue and the lavishness allowed for an area of such limited scope.

Ex: Münz Zentrum Auktion 58, lot 1627.

Bronzes for Nero are rare compared to the huge output of billon produced by the Alexandrian mint during his reign. The drachm and hemidrachm denominations are extremely rare for Nero. This hemidrachm (of which Christiansen notes in reference to the Dattari specimen that "I have found no parallel to this coin") and a drachm (cf. Datt. 281, Zeus enthroned left, holed) which appeared in the Jungfleisch Collection (Sotheby's, 1972, lot 26 and again in Glendining's, June 20th, 1984, lot 95), and another drachm (cf. Datt. 280, Sarapis enthroned left) in the Mabbott Collection (Schulman, June 1969, lot 3287) are the only coins for each denomination that I have seen appear on the market in recent years! Only a few specimens exist in institutional collections, primarily the ANS in New York (cf. Datt. 281) and the Demetrio collection in Athens (Dem. 724 and 725).

GALBA. 68-69 AD.

10. Year 2(68/69 AD). Æ Drachm. (27.55 gms.). ΣΕΡΟΥΙΓΑΛΒΑ AVTOKAIΣΣΕΒΑ, laureate head right. Winged bust of Nike right; before, L B. Köln 243, Datt. 322, Milne 352, Dem. 757. Near VF, dark brown patina with touches of red, rare. (350)

OTHO. 69 AD.

11. Year 1(69 AD). Æ Diobol. (9.13 gms.). [AVTO]KMAPK ΟΘΩΝΟΣΚΑΙΣΣΕ[B], laureate head right. Draped bust of Isis right, wearing headdress of horns and disk; before, L A. Köln 256, Datt. 334, Milne 370. Good VF, brown patina, scattered porosity, rare. (150)
Ex: Garrett Collection Part III (NFA & Bank Leu; March 29, 1985), lot 484f (part of).

12. Year 1(69 AD). Æ Hemidrachm. (14.33 gms.). AVTOKMAPK [ΟΘΩΝΟ]ΣΚΑΙΣΣΕ[B], laureate head right. Draped bust of Isis right, wearing headdress of horns and corn-wreath; before, L A. Köln 254/255, Datt. 332, BMC 214. Nice VF+ for issue, dark brown patina with touches of green verdigris, attractive and very rare this nice. (350)
Ex: Moreira Collection Part 1 (Superior Galleries, June 1, 1988), lot 1870.

14. Year 1(69 AD). \Delta Drachm. (28.31 gms.). [AVTOK]MAPK ΟΕΩΝΟΣΚΑΙΣΣΕΒ, laurate head right. Winged and draped bust of Nike right; before, L A. Dattari 335 otherwise unpublished. VF, attractive green-brown patina, extremely rare. (2500)
Ex: Joel L. Malter & Co. Auction XXXIV, lot 479 (December 15, 1986); Frank O'Sullivan Collection; Dattari Collection (but probably not the specimen described in his catalogue). Sestertii were not struck for Otho in Rome and one must go to the provincial mints for a large size bronze of Otho of which the Alexandrian drachm is probably the largest known. Of probably less than six specimens known, this is the finest example and the only specimen in private hands to my knowledge. One of the extreme rarities of the Alexandrian series!

VESPASIAN. 69-79 AD.

15. Year 1(69 AD). \Delta Diobol. (10.57 gms.). AVTTITΦΛAVIO ΒΕΣΠΑΣΙΑΝΚΑΙΣ, laurate head right. Draped bust of Isis right, wearing headdress of horns and disk; before, L A. Köln 270, Datt. 380, BMC 261. Good VF, medium brown patina. (125)

Ex: Virginia Ruzicka Collection, Joel L. Malter & Co. Auction XXVIII (December 8, 1984), lot 409.

DOMITIAN. 81-96 AD.

17. Year 3(83/84 AD). \Delta Diobol. (8.93 gms.). AVTOKKAΙΣΑΡ ΔΟΜΙΤΙΑΝΟΣΣΕΒ, laurate head right. ETOVΣ TPITOV, draped bust of Isis right, wearing headdress of horns and disk. Köln 336, BMC 303, Dem. 840. Good VF, olive and brown patina. (100)

Ex: Virginia Ruzicka Collection, Joel L. Malter & Co. Auction XXVIII (December 8, 1984), lot 415.

18. Year 6(86/87 AD). \Delta Obol. (3.52 gms.). AVTKAIΣΑΡ ΔΟΜΙΤΙΑΝΟΣΣΕΒΓΕΡΜ, laurate head right; before, L ξ. Nemesis (as griffin) seated right, left forepaw on wheel. Frankfurt 223, Milne 489/490, BMC 324. VF+, dark green patina. (150)

21. Year 15(95/96 AD). $\text{\textit{AE}}$ Drachm. (18.45 gms.). [AVTKAIC Θ EO]VVIOC ΔOM[ITCEBΓΕΡΜ], laureate head right. Triumphal arch, with three passageways, four freestanding columns that flank the arch passageways and support heroic statues; above, metopes (or relief panels) and pediment (two inward-flying Victories supporting a globe); arch surmounted by emperor in chariot drawn by six horses and flanked by trophies with captives. Köln 415/416, Milne 532, BMC 342. Good Fine, dark green-brown patina, rare type.
(100)

This reverse type was recently the subject of an article in The Numismatic Chronicle, Volume 149 (1989), "An Arch Of Domitian In Rome On Coins Of Alexandria," by Fred S. Kleiner. Mr. Kleiner skillfully argues that the arch portrayed on this coin existed in Rome not Alexandria as some have surmised, and that this arch probably did not survive Domitian's damnatio memoriae.

TRAJAN. 98-117 AD.

22. Year 1(98 AD). $\text{\textit{AE}}$ Drachm. (27.37 gms.). AVTKAIΣΝΕΡ TPAIANΣΕΒΓΕΡΜ, laureate head right. Nilus reclining left, holds cornucopiae from which emerges genius, and reed; below, crocodile right and L A; above, I ζ (cubits). Köln 440, Datt. 971, BMC 466, Milne 545/546. VF, attractive reddish-brown patina with green highlights, scarce year for bronzes for Trajan.
(150)

(40)

25. Year 11(107/108 AD). $\text{\textit{AE}}$ Drachm. (22.93 gms.). AVT TPAIANC ΕΒΓΕΡΜΔAKIK, laureate and draped bust right. Elpis standing left, holding lotus-blossom in right hand and hem of chiton with left; to either side, L-IA. BMC 436. VF, dark green-brown patina, scarce.
Ex: CNA III (April 29, 1988), lot 224.

26. Year 12(108/109 AD). $\text{\textit{AE}}$ Drachm. (20.62 gms.). AVT TPAIANC ΒΓΕΡΜ[Δ]AKIK, laureate bust right with aegis. Sarapis enthroned left, holding long sceptre with left hand and right hand resting at side (possibly Kerberos at his right side); facing before him; Hermanubis standing right, holding caduceus and palm-branch; to either side, [L]-IB. cf. Mion. VI, 612 otherwise unpublished. Good VF, nice green and brown patina, extremely rare type.
(450)

27. Year 12(108/109 AD). $\text{\textless}E$ Drachm. (20.62 gms.). AVT TPAIANCEB ГЕРМΔАКИK, laureate, draped and cuirassed bust right. An extremely rare year for Antoninus Pius as he became emperor on July 10, 138 AD and his second Alexandrian regnal year would have commenced on August 29, 138 AD based on the Egyptian calendar. If it were not for the smooth transition of power from Hadrian to Pius, the Alexandrian mint probably would not have been able to strike any coinage for "Year 1" of Pius' reign in Egypt.

84. Year 2(138/139 AD). $\text{\textless}E$ Diobol. (8.37 gms.). AVTKTAΙΛΑΔΡ [ANTWNINOCEVCC]EB, bare-headed and nude bust right. Bust of Isis right, wearing headdress of horns and disk; to either side, L-B. Milne 1614. Near VF, dark brown patina, scarce type. (100)

The exact meaning of this reverse type has perplexed many numismatists. Curtis notes in his monograph "The Coinage of Roman Egypt: A Survey" that "the human foot and lower leg, as an ancient Egyptian hieroglyph, has the meaning of 'place' or 'position,' as well as the alphabetical value of the letter 'B.' There may or may not be a symbolic connection with the coin type." It has also been suggested by A. Henrichs that the type represents the colossal statue of Sarapis by Bryaxis (See "New and Noteworthy From Roman Alexandria: Pescennius Niger - Diadumenian" by William E. Metcalf [Greek Numismatics and Archaeology - Essays in Honor of Margaret Thompson, 1979, Wetteren] pp. 175-176) which is "always described as a colossus, the god's right foot and ankle were the only parts of the statue which were within reach of the worshipper." Since a statue of a god was "no less potent than the god himself," and touching it "could effect a cure," then the type "merely portrays a familiar but distinctive piece of religious apparatus." This is the most likely theory!

Ex: Münz Zentrum Auktion 66 (April, 26-28, 1989), lot 724. This extremely rare coin is thought to represent a debased (size and weight) drachm and was issued to commemorate the short-lived co-regency of Aurelian and Vaballathus. The name "Athenodoros" has been shown to be the second name of Vaballathus as confirmed by a Palmyrene inscription and not that of a second son of Odenathus - King of Palmyra and father of Vaballathus by Zenobia.

THE "ZODIAC" SERIES OF ANTONINUS PIUS

The "Zodiac" series or "astrological" series minted in Alexandria in Pius' regnal year 8 or 144/145 AD was issued to commemorate the commencement of the "Great Sothic Cycle" which occurred in 139 AD. The Sothic cycle has its origins during dynastic Egypt. Unlike most cultures in antiquity, the Egyptians used the solar not the lunar calendar. The moon played an unusually minor role in their mythology. The Egyptian year consisted of three seasons of four months each: Inundation, Germination and the Warm Season.

One of the first astronomers at Memphis or Heliopolis must have noticed early one morning, before dawn on the first day of Inundation, that the bright star Sothis (or Sirius, the "Dog" star) appeared on the eastern horizon on this day at the same moment as the sun. Impressed with this "heliacal rising of Sothis" it was decided to make it a subordinate point of departure for the Egyptian year. This conjunction of the three events of the rising of the sun, rising of Sothis, and the start of Inundation occurred only once every 1461 years. This period constituted a "Sothic Cycle."

Modern research establishes that a Sothic cycle would have commenced approximately during 1322 BC during the 19th Dynasty of Pharaonic Egypt. This is confirmed by ancient scribal records. Therefore, a reoccurrence of the cycle would have happened during the second year of Antoninus Pius' reign. It follows that the Zodiac and, probably, the Herakles series of drachmae were commemorative issues honoring this rare and important event in Egyptian culture.

The Graeco-Roman mint officials at Alexandria interpreted this coincidence of the two so-called Egyptian calendars of the "Vague" or civil calendar and the "Sothic" or fixed calendar with a series of coins based upon Greek astrology. This series of coins "represent the beginning of the Sothic Cycle when the constellations and the planets had returned to their initial positions relative to the calendar year." The first two lots depict this by having two "Zodiac wheels," one inside the other, "Aries" at the top, and the signs of both coinciding.

The rest of the Zodiac series "represents the various constellations of the Zodiac with the planet which was in conjunction with each during the year of the start of the new Sothic cycle." This group has a regular order: "the 'Moon in Cancer', and the 'Sun in Leo', followed by the five planets known to the ancient world in the five signs from Virgo to Capricorn. The planets are then repeated in retrograde order with the five remaining signs in regular order. The object of the inversion of the planets is to retain them in their proper (astrological) signs."

The signs are as follows (by convention the Roman pantheon is used for the god's names): Moon in Cancer, Sun in Leo, Mercury in Virgo, Venus in Libra, Mars in Scorpio, Jupiter in Sagittarius, Saturn in Capricorn, Saturn in Aquarius, Jupiter in Pisces, Mars in Aries, Venus in Taurus, and Mercury in Gemini.

The "Zodiac Wheel" Types

Dattari identified three different "Zodiac Wheel" types in his collection and Carl Carlson first published a fourth type which is offered below (see lot 158). The two types not represented in this collection are: Dattari 2982 -- Three concentric circles: the outermost consisting of the Zodiac wheel with "Aries" at the top; the second consisting of the eponymous gods of the days of the week, the planets, in the counterclockwise order: Saturn, Sun, Moon, Mars, Mercury, Jupiter, and Venus; the innermost circle has a bust of Sarapis left.

Dattari 2984 -- Two concentric circles, the outer one being the Zodiac wheel counterclockwise with Aries at the top; the inner circle contains the conjoined busts of Helios and Selene left.

Caskets have been found from the Roman-Egyptian time period in Egypt that have an Alexandrian Zodiac drachm such as this one attached to the outer lid or side. These were probably intended to note the birth-sign of the deceased.

"Mercury in Gemini" is extremely rare for the Alexandrian Zodiac series! This coin varies from the normal Greek astrological type of the Dioscuri as the "constellation of the Twins" and perhaps, relates another version of this astrological myth which incorporated Herakles and Apollo. The Dioscuri were certainly recognized in Egypt and are familiar types for Alexandrian coinage, thus their absence from this Zodiac type is intriguing.

A sub-variety with Apollo holding his lyre instead of balancing it on the ground!

THE TWELVE LABORS OF HERAKLES

The Twelve Labors of Herakles are most often attributed by classical scholars to have been penance and atonement for Herakles' madness by which he killed six of his own children and two of his brother's, mistaking them for his enemies. When Herakles recovered his sanity, he went to Delphi and was told to serve Eurystheus for twelve years; and to perform whatever Labors might be determined for him. His payment for this was to be rewarded with immortality (by today's standards of morality, it seems contradictory to give Herakles a reward for performing penance!). He was hindered at all times by Hera when trying to complete these labors, but was aided by others in the Greek Pantheon.

The series of bronze drachmae portraying the labors and/or adventures of Herakles were struck in Alexandria in seven different years of Antoninus Pius' reign ranging from Year 4 (140/141 AD) to Year 24 (160/161 AD) with Year 10 the most prolific in terms of specimens extant today.

186. Year 5(141/142 AD). $\text{\textless} \text{\textgreater}$ Drachm. (20.86 gms.). AVTKTAΙΑΔΡ• [ANTWNINOC EVCEB], laureate head right. Near VF, dark brown patina with touches of red and green on reverse, scarce. (100)

Ex: Garrett Collection Part III (NFA & Bank Leu; March 29, 1985), lot 484k (part of).

The First Labor: The Nemean Lion

The first labor imposed on Herakles by Eurystheus was the conquest of the Nemean lion. This invulnerable beast had a pelt impervious to iron, bronze or stone. After trying various weapons to no avail on the lion, Herakles was able to choke it to death as seen on the coin type below. He then managed to skin it with its own claws. Thereafter, the lion-skin became Herakles' standard raiment. This type is known for Years 4, 5, 6, and 10 from Alexandria.

187. Year 4(140/141 AD). $\text{\textless} \text{\textgreater}$ Drachm. (21.81 gms.). [AV]TK·TAΙΑΔΡ ANT[WNINOC EVCEB], laureate head right. LTET APTOY, Herakles standing right, holding the Nemean lion by its neck and jaws with both hands and up in the air, off the ground (lion's body horizontal). LΔKA TOV, Herakles standing left, holding the Nemean lion by its neck and jaws with both hands and up in the air, off the ground (lion's body vertical), lion's two right legs wrapped around Herakles; behind Herakles, his club vertical. Datt. 2594. Good VF, lovely green patina with touches of red. (750)

A rare sub-variety with Herakles standing on the right.

The Second Labor: The Lernaean Hydra

The Alexandrian reverse type is often thought to portray the giantess Echidna raising her son Hydra against Herakles in defense - this theory is according to Curtis, et al. The variations are so many for this labor that it is difficult to give an effective summary. One variation is that an enormous crab came to the aid of Hydra by nipping Herakles' foot, and in reward for the crab's service, Hera set its image among the twelve signs of the Zodiac. This is an obvious attempt by ancient writers to tie in the "Labors of Herakles" to the Zodiac.

Curtis believed that the coin type referred to the earliest form of the labor, before later writers had embellished Hydra with a multitude of heads, each of which could be replaced by two when cut off. This is probably close to the truth and Hans Voegli in Bilder Der Heldenepen In Der Kaiserzeitlichen Griechischen Münzpragung states that this is actually Hydra in his giantess form or Hydra with a female's upper-body ("Hydra mit weiblichem Oberkörper"). Therefore, the Alexandrian reverse type is portraying Herakles in conflict with Hydra directly. This type is not unique to Alexandria, either, as it also occurs in Perinth on coins of Septimius Severus. This type is known for Years 4, 5, 6, and 10 from Alexandria.

Ex: Garrett Collection Part I (NFA & Bank Leu, May 16-18, 1984), lot 802.

The Third Labor: The Cerynean Hind

Herakles was required to capture the hind, with its brazen hooves and golden horns, alive and bring it from Oenoe to Mycenae. He chased the stag for one full year before it finally tired and he captured it -- as shown on the coin type. This type is known for Years 4, 5, 6, and 10 from Alexandria.

193. Year 10(146/147 AD). \textsterling Drachm. (22.64 gms.). Legend illegible but probably [EBEVCAVTKTAIAΔP ANTWNNEINOC], laureate head right. [LΔEK A TOV], Herakles standing left, holding club and lion' skin with left hand and arm, right hand grasping antler of the Cerynean Hind running left and leaping past Herakles. Datt. 2611var. (same reverse die but obv. bust draped and cuirassed); Carlson, "Rarities 4 - The Labors of Hercules Series," SAN Vol. IV, No. 4 (1972/73); p. 65 (this coin illustrated). Good, smooth chocolate brown patina, extremely rare type for the "Herakles series." (100)
Ex: Garrett Collection Part III (NFA & Bank Leu; March 29, 1985), lot 4841 (part of).

194. Year 10(146/147 AD). \textsterling Drachm. (23.07 gms.). [CEB]EVCAVTKTAIAΔP ANTWN[EINOC], laureate, draped and cuirassed bust right. LΔEKATOV, Herakles standing right, nude but for lion's skin billowing out behind him, grasping the antlers of the Cerynean Hind with both hands and leaning on its back with his left knee; behind, Herakles' club upright. Datt. 2612var. and SNG Cop. 478var. (same reverse dies but obv. bust laureate only). VF, light brown patina, extremely rare variety. (800)

This artistic treatment of "Herakles and The Cerynean Hind" is definitely superior to the engraver's rendition of the previous lot!

The Fourth Labor: The Erymanthian Boar

For this labor, Herakles is given the task of capturing alive the fierce boar which ravaged the slopes of Mt. Erymanthus. He frightens it from its lair, chases it into deep snow, and there captures it and bounds it with chains. The coin type shows Herakles approaching Eurystheus, who cowered in terror in a bronze jar, when he saw Herakles with the struggling beast about his shoulders. This type is known for Years 4, 5 and 10 from Alexandria.

195. Year 6(142/143 AD). \textsterling Drachm (Counterfeit). (25.45 gms.). [AVT]KTAIAΔP ANTWN[NOCEVCEB], laureate head right. Herakles standing half-right, nude but for lion's skin hanging down behind from his shoulders; holding Erymanthian Boar over his left shoulder, its head down, Herakles about to cast the boar down on Eurystheus who is cowering in a bronze jar partly buried; to either side, L-S. Cast Counterfeit and unpublished for this year, also! Good VF, dark brown patina with lighter highlights, rare. (150)

196. Year 10(146/147 AD). $\text{\textless} \text{E}$ Drachm. (26.06 gms.). Legend illegible but probably [EBEVCAVTKTAIA Δ P ANTWEINOC], laureate head right. L-ΔEK[ATOV], Herakles standing half-right, nude but for lion's skin billowing out behind from his shoulders; holding Erymanthian Boar over his left shoulder, its head down, Herakles about to cast the boar down on Eurystheus who is cowering in a bronze jar partly buried; behind Herakles, his club upright. The Fifth Labor: The Augean Stables

Herakles' task was to clean the vast stables of King Augeas, in which the accumulated filth of many years lay undisturbed. Herakles diverted the waters of a nearby river through the stables, effectively cleaning them in a single day. The coin type symbolically portrays Herakles advancing toward a pile of rocks, from which a human-headed spout pours water into a shallow vase. A rake leans against the rocks.

This pictorial representation of this labor was a copy from a master image that was used in other artistic mediums known to us today such as mosaics. The same is true for most of the representations of Herakles' labors chosen by the Alexandrian die-engravers for this series (this will be further elaborated on after the "mythological and pictorial" section of this catalogue). This type is known for Years 5 and 10 from Alexandria.

The Sixth Labor: The Stymphalian Birds

A thickly wooded marsh in Stymphalos in Arkadia provided a natural refuge for these birds, who became so numerous that Herakles was given the task of eliminating them. Some accounts state that the birds had razor-edged feathers, or that they were man-eaters, or that they were women, daughters of Stymphalus and Ornis, whom Herakles killed because they refused him hospitality.

In any event, Herakles secured a bronze rattle made by the god Hephaistos, with which he frightened the birds out into the open. He then quickly shot them with arrows. The coin type depicts Herakles, with lion-skin over his head and shoulders, drawing his bow for a shot. Two or three birds tumble down before him. This type is known for Years 4, 5, 6, and 10 from Alexandria.

199. Year 6(142/143 AD). AE Drachm. (25.33 gms.). [CEBEVCAVT]KTAIAΔP ANTWNIN[OC], laureate head right. Herakles standing half-right, wearing lion's skin over head and down shoulders behind him and to either side, quiver over right shoulder, drawing arrow back in bow and pointing it slightly upwards; before him, three of the Stymphalian birds falling from the sky; behind Herakles, S/L and his club. Voegli 9b, 12i (this coin); Curtis, "The Coinage of Roman Egypt: A Survey," p.36, pl. XXVI (the reverse of this coin plated); otherwise apparently unpublished for this year. Good VF, dark brown patina with touches of green, rare. (1000)

LΔEKAT O [V], Herakles standing half-right, wearing lion's skin over head and down shoulders behind him, quiver over right shoulder suspended, drawing back bow and pointing it slightly upwards; before him, two of the Stymphalian birds falling from the sky. Köln 1538var., BMC 1049var. (spacing on rev. for date). VF, lovely dark green patina. (600)

The Seventh Labor: The Cretan Bull

Herakles was given the task of capturing alive the bull on which Europa arrived in Crete or by other accounts -- the bull that King Minos withheld from sacrifice to Poseidon and which sired the Minotaur. Herakles captured the bull, after some minor adventures, showed the bull to Eurystheus, and released it. The coin type depicts the actual capture, as the hero grasps the bull by the head. This type is known for Years 4, 5, 6, and 10 from Alexandria.

201. Year 6(142/143 AD). AE Drachm. (25.61 gms.). EBAVTK•T•ΑΙΔΑΔΡ• ANTWNINOCEVC, laureate head right. Herakles running right, nude, grasping the head of the Cretan bull, also running right, with both hands and jerking its head back; behind, upright club surmounted by lion's skin; before, S/L. Datt. 2610, Voegli 10a, 12j (this coin). Good VF, lovely brown patina, excellent surfaces, extremely rare. (1750)

The Eighth Labor: The Mares of Diomedes

In this rather gruesome tale, Herakles is required to secure the four flesh-eating horses of Diomedes, son of the war-god Ares. He does so, after a terrible battle, by killing Diomedes and feeding his body to his own horses. This act tamed the Mares and enabled them to be brought safely to Mycenae where Eurystheus dedicated them to Hera and set them free on Mt. Olympus. The coin type depicts Herakles about to smite one of the mares with his club. This type is known for Years 5, 6, and 10 from Alexandria.

The Ninth Labor: Hippolyte's Girdle

In this labor, Herakles is charged with obtaining the golden, magic girdle of Ares worn by Hippolyte, queen of the Amazons. Although there are numerous variations of how Herakles actually obtained the girdle, the most prevalent version is that after defeating the Amazonian army; Herakles removed the girdle from the fallen body of the queen. The coin type shows Herakles in the act of seizing the girdle from the prostrate Hippolyte on her fallen horse. This type is known for Years 5, 6, and 10 from Alexandria.

The Tenth Labor: The Cattle of Geryon

In this labor, Herakles was unable to journey to the "Farthest West," the land of the monster-man Geryon (brother of Echidna); without first forcing Helios himself to yield the "Golden Cup of the Sun" for the journey. After reaching the "Farthest West," Herakles had to contend with the two-headed watchdog Orthus and with the herdsman Eurytion, son of Ares, both of whom he killed; before finally confronting Geryon. He killed Geryon and then loaded the slain monster's vast herd of cattle on board the "Golden Cup" and returned. The coin type depicts Herakles holding two charging bulls of the dead Geryon whose body lies below. This type is known for Years 4, 5 and 10 from Alexandria.

The Eleventh Labor: The Apples of the Hesperides

Herakles is sent to secure the holy, golden apples of the Hesperides (the Hesperides were Atlas' daughters to whom Hera had entrusted the tree that grew the apples, but they were caught pilfering the apples; Hera set the ever-watchful serpent Ladon to coil around the tree as its guardian as depicted on the coin type). After difficulties in locating the garden, Herakles could not pick the apples himself. He got Atlas to do this for him by holding the sky on his own shoulders. Atlas, however, had to be tricked by Herakles into resuming his heavy burden.

Varying from the myth, the coin type shows Herakles reaching for an apple, while the serpent Ladon hangs dead from the branches of the tree, an arrow through his neck; which is correctly part of the original myth. This type is known for Years 4, 5, 6, and 10 from Alexandria.

The Twelfth Labor: The Capture of Kerberos

This, the most terrible and difficult of the labors, required Herakles to invade Hades itself. He was to bring back the three-headed watchdog of Hades, Kerberos (another of Echidna's offspring). After several adventures and hardships and with the help of Athena and Hermes, the task was accomplished. The coin type depicts Herakles emerging from the portal of Hades, dragging by a rope the reluctant Kerberos. This type is known for Years 4, 6 and 10 from Alexandria.

Herakles and Antaeus

Antaeus, the son of Poseidon and Mother Earth, was in the habit of forcing strangers to wrestle with him until they were exhausted, whereupon he killed them. Not only was he a strong and skillful athlete, but whenever he touched his mother, the earth, his strength revived. Herakles, determined to end this barbarous practice, wrestled Antaeus and realizing that Antaeus was a son of Mother Earth; he lifted Antaeus in the air until he crushed him to death. This is the scene portrayed on the coin type. This type is known for Years 5, 6, and 24 from Alexandria.

Herakles and the Centaur Pholos

Herakles, on his way to capture the Erymanthian boar, was entertained by the Centaur Pholos, whom one of the ash-nymphs bore to Silenus. The other centaurs grew angry when they smelt the strong wine from their communal wine jar and knew Pholos had offered it to Herakles. They attacked Herakles while Pholos hid in terror. In Herakles' attempt to defeat the centaurs, an arrow inadvertently struck the Centaur Chiron, who was an old friend and tutor of Herakles. Herakles tried to help Chiron but to no avail as the wound was incurable. The coin type portrays Herakles, holding a lyre, clasping the arm of Pholos as the two apparently converse; to the right, an attendant is drawing wine. This type is known for Years 6 and 24 from Alexandria.

Herakles and Prometheus

Prometheus, the creator of mankind, whom some included among the seven Titans, was sentenced to being chained naked to a pillar in the Caucasian mountains by Zeus for giving mankind the gift of fire -- previously known only to the gods on Mt. Olympus. Everyday a greedy vulture-eagle tore at Prometheus' liver, year in, year out; and there was no end to the pain, because every night his liver grew whole again.

Herakles, coming upon Prometheus during his travels, felt compassion for him and asked Zeus for his release. Zeus agreed only when the Centaur Chiron said he would take Prometheus' place in order to escape the incurable wound inflicted by Herakles (see Herakles and Pholos). Chiron was immortal but would have to give this up also to escape his pain. On this coin, Herakles is shown aiming his bow at the vulture-eagle that tormented Prometheus, and Prometheus is shown chained to the pillar on the right. This is the only known surviving example!

MYTHOLOGICAL PICTORIAL DRACHMAE ISSUED BY PIUS

The Rape of Persephone

Persephone, the daughter of Demeter, had the fate of Hades' love. Hades fell in love with Persephone and asked Zeus for permission to marry her. Zeus feared to offend his eldest brother by a downright refusal, but knew also that Demeter would not forgive him if Persephone were committed to the underworld. Zeus "therefore answered politically that he could neither give nor withhold his consent." This emboldened Hades to abduct Persephone, as she was picking flowers in a meadow, and carry her away in his horse-drawn chariot to the underworld as depicted on the Alexandrian coin type. This type is known for Year 5 only from Alexandria.

217. Year 5(141/142 AD). \textsterling Drachm. (28.65 gms.). [KPAKAIC]AΔP [ANTWNINOCAVTO], laureate head right. Hades standing slightly right in quadriga, laureate head left, holding Persephone with his right hand and the reigns of the quadriga with his left; Persephone's body is limp; above, Eros flying right over horses, L/E and rocks designating the cave entrance to the underworld. Achilles and the Centaur Chiron

"The wise and benevolent centaur Chiron, as tutor and guide, was given the custody of the sons of many ancient princes" and heroes (Herakles, previously mentioned, was one). Another such pupil was Achilles, of Trojan War fame, who spent his formative years with Chiron. This reverse type portrays Chiron leading the young Achilles, who carries a sword and shield, while Chiron holds a helmet.

Orpheus Charming the Animals

Orpheus, son of the Thracian king Oeagrus and the Muse Calliope, was the most famous poet and musician that lived in the ancient world. Apollo presented him with a lyre, and the Muses taught him its use, so that he not only enchanted wild beasts (as the coin type portrays), but made the trees and rocks move from their places to follow the sound of his music. This type is known for Years 5 and 7 from Alexandria under Pius.

219. Year 5(141/142 AD). \textsterling Drachm. (26.27 gms.). AVTOKPAKAICAΔP ANTWNINOC LE (date), bare head right. Orpheus seated half-right on a rock, wears himation over left shoulder and legs, playing a lyre; around him, various animals (starting clockwise behind Orpheus); horse drinking out of a stream left (hippopotamus behind him), rabbit seated right, fox (?) seated right, swan standing left, monkey seated left, bear (?) seated left on a rock, goat standing left, lion (?) laying right at Orpheus' feet; to either side, L-E (faint). Vogt II 68 (notes a specimen in Berlin); cf. Datt. 2996 (noted as year 7?). Near VF, dark brown patina with touches of green, extremely rare. (1000)

This specimen has the extremely rare obverse die with the date (L E) in the legend which was employed so as not to detract from the reverse design with an unnecessary date, but the engraver mistakenly included the date on the reverse, also! An extremely rare type that is also known for Marcus Aurelius (Mion. 2045) and Lucius Verus (BMC 1373).

The Judgment of Paris

The Judgment of Paris, which was the cause of the Trojan War, begins when a gathering of the gods at the wedding of Peleus and Thetis was interrupted by Eris ("Strife"), who threw on the banquet table a golden apple inscribed "to the fairest." Hera, Athena and Aphrodite all immediately lay claim to this apple. Zeus politically avoided responsibility by referring the decision to Paris, the lost mortal son of Priam - King of Troy. Hermes led the goddesses to Mount Ida where Paris was a herdsman.

Paris' chief amusement was setting his bulls to fight one another and then he would crown the victor with flowers and the loser with straw. "When one bull began to win consistently, Paris pitted it against the champions of his neighbors' herds, all of which were defeated. At last he offered to set a golden crown upon the horns of any bull that could defeat his own; so for a jest, Ares turned himself into a bull, and won the prize. Paris' unhesitating award of the golden crown to Ares surprised and pleased the gods which is why Zeus chose him to arbitrate between the three goddesses' dispute over the golden apple." All three goddesses tried to influence Paris' decision by bribery, and it was Aphrodite who triumphed by guaranteeing Paris the world's most beautiful mortal woman as a wife - Helen of Sparta.

The coin type, one of two basic treatments of the scene found on Alexandrian drachmae, shows the three goddesses - Athena, Hera and Aphrodite (from right to left) - on a raised platform to the right of Hermes and Paris. Hermes is shown pointing toward Aphrodite while looking back at Paris; Hera is looking back at Athena - presager of things yet to happen. This type is known for Years 5 and 7 from Alexandria.

The Reaper

This type and the so-called "Ploughman" type are commonly included in the Alexandrian mythological and pictorial coin series. Although they are not mythological in derivation, they may either represent their respective constellations or, perhaps, the seasons of summer and fall. If the latter is correct, then we would expect to encounter a coin type depicting spring, which was very important in Egypt with the inundation of the Nile. Perhaps, the "Nilus reclining" types represent this season. This type is known for Year 5 only from Alexandria.

The Flaying of Marsyas

The satyr Marsyas acquired the discarded flutes of Athena who threw them away in disgust for she did not like how they disfigured her mouth when she played. Marsyas gradually became so proficient in their use that he challenged Apollo himself to a music contest. Apollo accepted with the condition that the victor could do as he pleased with the other. Having then vanquished the conceited Marsyas, Apollo chose to have him flayed alive for his punishment of having the audacity to challenge a god. The coin type depicts the flaying scene. This type is known for Year 8 only from Alexandria.

Perseus and Andromeda

Perseus, the slayer of Medusa, was returning from this deed when he caught sight of a naked woman chained to a sea-cliff, and instantly fell in love with her. This was Andromeda, daughter of the Ethiopian King of Joppa and Cassiopeia. Cassiopeia had boasted that both she and Andromeda were more beautiful than the Nereids, who complained of this insult to their protector, Poseidon. Poseidon sent a flood and a female sea-monster to devastate Philistia - home of Cassiopeia and Andromeda.

When the King consulted an oracle, he was told that his only hope was to sacrifice Andromeda to the sea-monster. This was Andromeda's predictament when Perseus saw her. Perseus killed the sea-monster and took Andromeda as his wife, but only after using Medusa's head to turn Cassiopeia and King Cepheus to stone after they broke their bargain with Perseus for saving Andromeda. The coin type portrays Perseus on the left helping Andromeda down from the sea-cliff. This type is known for Year 24 only from Alexandria.

223. Year 24(160/161 AD). \textsterling Drachm. (19.88 gms.). Legend effaced, laureate bust right, draped on left shoulder. Perseus advancing right, wearing Phrygian cap and chlamys, holding a harpa with his left hand over his left shoulder, extending his right hand to Andromeda; she is standing against a rock-base, wearing chiton, extends her right hand to Perseus and left hand is held to her breast; between them, [Δ]/L; behind Perseus, [K]. Epilogue

The "raison d'être" of why these various series of coins catalogued above were struck in Alexandria and during the reign of Antoninus Pius has been often debated. One theory first proposed by Joseph Grafton Milne is that Alexandria might have just been following Rome's lead in "an attempt to revive the interest of the Romans in their archaeology and antiquities by representations of historical or mythological scenes or objects of art." Therefore, those in charge at the Alexandrian mint may have produced these "series" of coins to follow this line of thinking, and by so doing, issued a group of coins completely foreign to the native Egyptians but of obvious importance to those with Greek influence in their backgrounds.

Another theory is that during this time period of Pius' reign there was a governor appointed over Egypt from Greece or that general area. It was this governor, therefore, that commissioned these mythological and zodiacal coins to be minted for his own reasons and purpose, perhaps, even as gifts for visiting dignitaries. He governed approximately ten years and then was replaced. Some of the odd year issues such as during years 10 and 24 can be explained as having been minted to complete or add to someone's "set" -- so to speak.

The most persuasive argument, in my opinion, is that these coins were commemorative issues related to the observance of the Sothic cycle (see introduction to the "Zodiac" series). Whichever theory concerning the issuance of these drachmae is chosen, one other theory must be consistent to all. That is that at least two die-engravers/artisans were employed by the Alexandrian mint to create the dies for these coins, and they were either brought in from somewhere else, part of the travelling group of die-engravers that cut other Roman provincial coin dies; or perhaps more likely, they were part of the Alexandrian school and their talents were called upon for these special issues of drachmae. Possibly, at least the first was from the Greek-Asiatic school. This die-engraver probably worked during years 5 to 10. This theory is based upon the artistic treatment of the various scenes shown on the coins as proposed by Milne.

Milne believes that the first engraver, based on his art style, was trained in bas relief, and the second engraver was trained in painting and/or mosaics. Milne also suggested that the coin designs were derived from paintings not sculpture. He goes further to suggest that there must have been some sort of "pattern book" or "master sketchbook" as Carl W. A. Carlson names it, that circulated amongst the artisans. This was the conceptual basis for the coin designs, and it is possible that each engraver submitted a "pattern" die based on his interpretation of the "master sketch." This would account for the dramatically different treatments that such issues as the "Judgment of Paris" exhibit.

Milne concludes that the first die-engraver employed was superior to the second in terms of art style. I would argue against this, for this is only Milne's own artistic and aesthetic opinion of the engraver's art style. It also interesting to note here that Milne did not believe there was any connection between these series of drachmae (mythological and pictorial) and the Sothic Cycle.

Milne and Carlson both concur that a "pattern book" or "master sketchbook" was employed by the die-engravers, but there is not any physical evidence to support this theory. Rather as Per Gustaf Hamberg suggests in Studies in Roman Imperial Art, "the reverse types in most cases go back to memory-pictures and mental images and not to any direct copying of originals that the coin-engraver might have had before him in the course of his work with the dies." The same could be argued for the Alexandrian drachmae die-engravers.

Milne may have been correct in his belief that at least the second engraver was trained in painting and/or mosaics. Keeping in mind this theory and Hamberg's comments, we do have proof that the same artistic treatment of the "Labors of Herakles" and other mythological drachmae appeared in other forms of art, mainly mosaics, during the same chronological time period. In Liria, in the province of Valencia in Spain, a large mosaic was found depicting the "Labors of Herakles." The artistic treatment for this mosaic composite of the labors is almost exactly the same as for most of the twelve labors as they appear on the Alexandrian drachmae of Pius.

M. Tarradell in Arte Romano En Espana, where this mosaic treatment of the "Twelve Labors of Herakles" is photographed, made the following observations: "We know that there were travelling workshops of mosaic workers who worked according to models or 'cartoons' (see Hamberg's comment above), which they repeated in the most diverse places. Mosaic, therefore, is to a very great extent an art without any provincial frontiers, and it is possible to find in places very far removed from one another the same motifs treated in identical fashion. Frequently a mosaic discovered in Spain presents characteristics very close to those of others from the region of the Danube or from the African provinces."

Perhaps, an almost identical mosaic of Herakles' labors to that of the one found in Liria existed in Alexandria, and it was this that the Alexandrian die-engravers used as their models for the drachmae. Of course, to prove this one would have to find this mosaic in Egypt, but the possibility still exists. The mosaic workers were also probably working from even earlier derived artistic treatments as demonstrated by some of the same treatments of Herakles' labors appearing on Greek and Samian vases. [See Index of Figure-Types on Terra Sigillata ("Samian Ware") by Felix Oswald, University Press of Liverpool, 1936-37].

All of the coins that we have discussed are quite rare in terms of both number extant and number actually struck. Number extant can be determined approximately by census, but number actually struck is not so easily determined. In the case of the Zodiac and Mythological drachmae, though, we can venture an educated guess because of the high number of die linkages between recorded coins.

For example, in the Zodiac series alone, Carl Carlson has observed over 100 such die links and this research is being further added to by myself with another 20 links. When one can observe so many die links, both between obverse and reverse dies, from studying a limited quantity of specimens, then we can assume that the number of dies employed was minuscule compared to other Alexandrian issues (further example of this is that from a small group of 26 "Labors of Herakles" coins, formerly in the Garrett collection at Johns Hopkins University, nine die linkages were noted - five obverse, four reverse).

It is also noteworthy that several of the Zodiac types share common obverse dies with several Nome types also struck during year 8 of Pius' reign. The nomes were provinces or districts of ancient Egypt and are the subject of the next section of this catalogue.

The Nome Coinage of Alexandria

The so-called "nome" coinage of Alexandria is currently being studied and researched with new perspectives. The primary difference between the regular issue Roman-Egyptian coinage and the sub-series nome coinage is the epigraphical use of the nome's ethnic or an abbreviation thereof on the reverse of the coin. The ethnic serves to identify the nome in conjunction with the design motif or type also employed on the reverse. The reverse type was supposed to be indicative of the local cult of the Egyptian religion worshipped in each particular nome or city. Not all of the ethnics in question actually represented a nome but the designation as a class has served to satisfy the titular instincts of numismatists.

Under the emperor Domitian, the first nome hemidrachmae were issued in his 11th Alexandrian regnal year, 91/92 AD. Nome coins of the drachm denomination were issued under Trajan during his Alexandrian regnal years 12-15 and 20, and under Hadrian from regnal years 6-8. These coins are extremely rare. This nome drachmae series was continued by Antoninus Pius and Marcus Aurelius Caesar during Pius' regnal year 8.

A new denominational series of nome coins was issued by Hadrian during his 11th Alexandrian regnal year (126/127 AD). This remarkable series consisted of the two denominations, obol and dichalkon. The reverse type of the dichalkon is always the nome symbol which was being held by the standing figure/deity on the reverse of the obol.

It should be noted at this point that most of the names, if not all, used to designate the nomes on the Alexandrian coinage, such as Herakleopolite or Hermopolite, were the Greek interpretations devised by the Ptolemaic dynasty. They assimilated the local cult god with its nearest equivalent in the Greek pantheon to arrive at an appropriate name for the nome. The Romans continued this assimilation process by further merging the reverse types with attributes of the Horus/Isis cult which was extremely popular during Roman times. Thus, a study of Roman-Egyptian nome coinage is only indicative of the nomes cities, etc. as they probably existed during the second century AD with their Graeco-Roman attributes and not as they existed under the Pharaonic dynasties.

Milne was probably the first to correctly surmise that the nome coinage was struck in Alexandria itself and not in the nomes as tradition maintained. Milne based his conclusion on the similarities in style and fabric and the fact that Alexandria was the administration center for most of Egypt. Recently, Milne's conclusion has been further corroborated by a demonstration of a reverse die intended for a dichalkon of the Phthemporitite nome that was recut from a die accidentally engraved with the ethnic for the Phtheneotite nome [see Jennifer A. Sheridan, "The Nome Coins of Alexandria, Another Look" (ANS Museum Notes 33, 1988, New York) pp. 107-110]. In addition, an obverse die link between a standard Alexandrian obol of Hadrian and an obol of the Arsinoite nome was illustrated.

Carl W. A. Carlson noted in an article he authored in 1973 in the journal of the Society of Ancient Numismatics (SAN Vol. IV, 1972/73, No. 3, p. 47) that an obverse die link existed between a drachm of Antoninus Pius with a "Mercury in Gemini" zodiac reverse (Dattari 2962 and lot 185 of this sale) and a drachm of the Mareote nome (Dattari 6293 and lot 282 of this sale), both coins were in the Johns Hopkins University collection until 1984.

With Alexandria firmly established as the mint-city for the nome coinage, the other question that has been a major dilemma for numismatists is the raison d'être for this remarkable series of coins. Evidence is inconclusive for the suggestion that these coins were intended to circulate in the nomes themselves. The rarity of these coins would tend to dispute any large scale circulation plans, especially when compared to the extremely large numbers of Alexandrian coinage existent in general.

If, as also suggested, the reverse types used may have been offensive to local religious officials of the nomes, then the idea that the nome coinage may have been issued for commemorative reasons such as gifts for nome administrators or religious officials would appear to be incorrect. Another possibility for two issues in the nome series would be as decennalia commemoratives for Domitian and Hadrian. Domitian's first issue and Hadrian's issue of his 11th regnal year in Alexandria could have been Decennalia issues. The timing is correct.

Acknowledging the fact that the mint had already issued a few rare nome drachmae during Hadrian's regnal years 6-8, Alexandrian mint officials may have been prompted to issue the heretofore unprecedented issue of obols and dichalkoi to honor Hadrian's Decennalia. This still does not explain Trajan's and Antoninus Pius' issues. If Trajan's issues and the early issues of Hadrian are dismissed as merely imitative or revival issues by ignorant mint officials unaware of their original decennalia significance, then Pius' issues of his regnal year 8 could be explained as commemorative issues, along with the Zodiac issues of the same year, of the Great Sothic Cycle.

The importance of the Sothic Cycle to the Egyptians cannot be underestimated. It is possible that the Alexandrian mint officials held nothing back in their commemoration of this event which occurred only once every 1461 years. The rarity and sporadic issue of the nome coinage in general would specifically eliminate the theory that they were only additions to the regular stock types of the Alexandria mint.

I would like to thank Jennifer A. Sheridan of St. Joseph's University in Philadelphia (and a graduate of the ANS Summer Seminar in 1987) for graciously sharing her time and research on the nome coinage that will appear in her forthcoming book tentatively titled, The Nome Coins of Roman Alexandria, and to be published by the ANS. The rarity figures given for each coin in the following catalogue is the total number of examples that Ms. Sheridan knew of, based on the following collections: Dattari, Milne, SNG Copenhagen, BMC, Köln, Hunterian, Demetrio, Berlin, ANS, Frankfurt am Main, John Aiello Collection and the present collection. She included Dattari and Demetrio unless she knew that they were the same coin as a later collection.

Also, I added to her numbers any relevant nome coins that appeared in the recent NFA Fall Mail Bid Sale (October 18, 1990). These numbers are an excellent indication of the rarity of specific nome coins. In addition, coins marked with an asterisk (*) in this collection are examples that Ms. Sheridan used in her die study because they are the best example of a particular die pair.

TRAJAN. 98-117 AD.

224. Diopelite Magna. Year 13(109/110 AD). $\text{\textit{AE}}$ Drachm. (28.71 gms.). AVTKAI[CT]PAIAN СЕВГЕРΔАКИК, laureate bust right, draped on left shoulder. [N]O MO ΔIO (Δ inverted), male deity standing facing, head left, wearing hem-hem crown and himation which is draped over left arm, also holding long sceptre with left hand and ram in extended right hand; he stands between two garlanded bases, each surmounted by a stag standing inwards; to either side, L-II Γ . Unpublished, one of two known specimens, the other in the collection of the ANS and from the same dies. VF, light brown surfaces with touches of green, extremely rare. (800)

226. Ombite. Year 13(109/110 AD). $\text{\textit{AE}}$ Drachm. (27.51 gms.). [AVTPAIAN]CEB ГЕРМΔАКИК, laureate bust right with aegis. OBI(sic) THC NOMOC, male deity standing half-right, wearing crown of plume and horns, himation over legs and draped across left forearm; he holds crocodile right in left hand and long sceptre with right hand; to left, L II Γ . cf. Datt. 6325var. (reverse type same but obverse varies as well as reverse legend spacing and position of date), only known specimen other than Dattari. Near VF, dark brown patina with some green and red encrustation, extremely rare. (350)

228. Saïte. Year 12(108/109 AD). $\text{\textit{AE}}$ Drachm. (23.19 gms.). [AVTT PA]IANCEB ГЕP[МΔАКИК], laureate, draped and cuirassed (?) bust right. CAEITHC NOMOC, Athena standing half-left; wearing helmet, chiton, peplos and aegis; holding owl in extended right hand and spear with left; in upper left field, LIB. Datt. 6365; four known specimens for type. Good Fine, brown surfaces with touches of green and red, very rare. (250)

229. Saïte. Year 13(109/110 AD). \textsterling Drachm. (21.53 gms.). AVTT PA[IANCEB ΓΕΡΜΔΑΚΙΚ], laurate bust right with aegis. CAIT H [C], Athena standing half-left; wearing helmet, chiton and peplos; holding owl in extended right hand and spear with left; before her, Egyptian altar; to either side, LI-Γ. Datt. 6367 (this coin) and only known specimen. Fine, dark green-brown patina, some encrustation has been removed recently. (250)

230. Saïte. Year 13(109/110 AD). \textsterling Drachm. (24.35 gms.). AVT[T PAI]ANCEB [ΓΕΡ]ΜΔΑΚΙΚ, laurate bust right with aegis. CAI THC, Athena standing half-right; wearing helmet, chiton and peplos; holding spear with right hand and balancing shield on ground with left; to either side, L-IIΓ. SNG Cop. 1144 (same reverse die), NFA Fall MBS (October 18, 1990), lot 2565 (same reverse die) and this specimen are the only three known specimens to my knowledge. VF, light to dark brown surfaces, reverse fields lightly smoothed, extremely rare variant. (150)

SPAIN

287. Celsa. Circa 120-50 BC. \textsterling As. (15.33 gms.). Draped male bust right, one dolphin behind, two in front. CASE, horseman galloping right, wearing pointed cap and carrying palm. Burgos-594, SNG München-77. Superb EF, as struck. Flawless midnight black patina. [SEE COLOR PLATE]. (1250)

Superlative grade for a Spanish bronze, with an undisturbed black patina that must rank among the finest to be found on any ancient coin!

CALABRIA

288. Tarentum. Circa 420-228 BC. Hemilitra. (0.43 gms.). Cockleshell. Dolphin to left, Γ above, T below. Vlasto-1550. EF, choice Greek fraction. (400)

LUCANIA

289. Metapontum. Circa 510-480 BC. Stater. (8.01 gms.). META, retrograde, ear of barley, cable and dot border. Incuse ear of barley, reeded border. Noe-192. EF, dark toning. (1250)

SICILY

291. Akragas. Circa 472-420 BC. Didrachm. (8.63 gms.). AKRA CAN, eagle standing left. Crab in incuse circle. SNG Cop-27. Good VF. (700)

292. Akragas. Circa 5th Century BC. \textsterling Hemilitron. (17.63 gms.). ΑΚΡΑΓΑΣ, diademed head of river-god left. Eagle standing left on Ionic capital, head turned right; crab to left, six pellets to right. Calciati I-89. SNG Cop-93. Near VF, brown patina, reverse off center. (200)

293. Akragas. Circa 5th Century BC. $\text{\textit{AE}}$ Tetras. (10.58 gms.). AK PA, eagle flying right, tearing at serpent. Crab; crayfish below and three pellets around. Calciati I-58. Nice Fine, green patina. Rare variety with serpent. (250)

294. Gela. Circa 420-405 BC. $\text{\textit{AE}}$ Tetras. (3.90 gms.). ΓΕΛΑΣ, bull to left, head lowered; three pellets in exergue. Diademed and horned head of river god Gelas right. Calciati III-14, Jenkins (Coinage of Gela)-504. VF, black patina. (150)
Sicilian bronze coins of this denomination, marked by three pellets, have traditionally been termed trias, for a three-unit piece. New thinking suggests the proper name should be tetras, for a piece four to a litra, a litra equalling 12 onkia.

295. Himera. After 430 BC. $\text{\textit{AE}}$ Hexas. (11.45 gms.). Facing Gorgon head. H, two dots between uprights. cf. Calciati-10A. VF, jade green patina. Very low relief on obverse, making details indistinct. Possibly unpublished. (1200)

296. Himera. Circa 450-420 BC. $\text{\textit{AE}}$ Hexas. (7.45 gms.). Facing Gorgon head. Two pellets. Calciati I-21. VF, very low relief, green and black patina. Unusual broad flan showing complete Gorgon head. (400)

297. Himera. Circa 450-420 BC. $\text{\textit{AE}}$ Tetras. (14.35 gms.). Facing Gorgon head. Three pellets. Calciati I-18, SNG Cop-315. VF, very low relief, green patina. (250)

298. Katane. Circa 5th Century BC. Litra. (0.78 gms.). Balding head of Seilenos with pointed ears right. KATAN AIΩN, winged thunderbolt flanked by shields. BMC Sicily-45. Dark toned VF. (750)

No other specimen of this type noted in the other major collections.

A rare variant with one of the reverse barley grains replaced with a leaf.

300. Leontini? Circa 405 BC? Pentonkion. (0.28 gms.). Facing head of nymph, slightly left. Four pellets surrounding a barley grain (which equals a fifth mark for a pentakion?) Apparently unpublished. EF, some porosity. Very rare. (1000)

A curious piece. The barley grain is found on many fractional silver pieces of Leontini circa 460 BC, and on a very rare hemilitron of Himera of the same period. But the facing bust is unlike anything else from Leontini, and would seem to be based on Kimon's masterful head of Arethusa from Syracuse circa 405 BC. Leontini, like other Sicilian cities, did make use of other Syracusean designs, such as the slow quadriga, and it is not impossible that it would copy Kimon. To claim that however, would require positing an unknown issue of Leontini fractions several decades later than those presently known.

301. Menainon. After 210 BC. AE Pentonkion. (5.22 gms.). Laureate bust of Apollo right; Π behind. MENAI ΝΩΝ, Asklepios standing facing, holding phiale and staff with serpent twined around it. Calciati III-3, SNG Cop-381. Good VF, heavy green patina, rare this nice. (250)

302. Messana. Circa 357-287 BC. AE 25mm. (9.59 gms.). ΜΕΣΑΝΙΩΝ, head of nymph Messana left, hair bound with fillets. Goddess holding palm, driving biga of mules right; Δ in exergue. Calciati I-18 R1 2, BMC Sicily-67. Brown VF, very rare. (800)

Equal or superior to the Virzi specimen, Leu 6 (1973), lot 158 (2400 Sfr).

303. Selinos. Circa 415-409 BC. AE Hemilitron. (3.15 gms.). Head of young Herakles in lion skin right. ΣΕ, bow case and bow. Calciati I-11. VF+, dark green patina. Scarce. (200)

304. Solus. Circa 4th Century BC. AE Hemilitron. (3.12 gms.). Head of young Herakles in lion skin right. Hippocamp left. Calciati I-3. Good VF, smooth dark green patina. Rare. (300)

305. Syracuse. Circa 415 BC. AE Hemilitron. (4.40 gms.). Head of Arethusa left, hair in sphendone; dolphin behind. Four spoked wheel; ΣΥ PA in two quadrants, two dolphins in others. Calciati II-20, SNG Cop-696. EF, choice dark green patina with tan highlights, well centered. A superb Sicilian bronze. (450)

306. Syracuse. Circa 415 BC. AE Hemilitron. (4.78 gms.). ΣΥΠΑ, head of Artemis-Arethusa left, hair in sphendone, triple drop earrings, pearl necklace. Quadripartite incuse square, in center, incuse circle with sixteen ray star. Calciati II-18, SNG Cop-695. Nice VF, good style, brown patina. (250)

309. Syracuse. Agathokles. 317-289 BC. EL 10 Litrai. (0.71 gms.). Head of Artemis-Arethusa right, hair in sphendone. Cuttle-fish. SG-959, SNG Cop-709. EF, delightful delicate style. [SEE COLOR PLATE]. (2500)

310. Syracuse. Agathokles. 317-289 BC. AE 22mm. (8.90 gms.). ΣΩΤΕΙΠΑ, head of Artemis right. ΑΓΑΘΟΚΛΕΟΣ ΒΑΣΙΛΕΟΣ, winged thunderbolt. Calciati II-142, SNG Cop-779. VF, smooth black patina. (100)

313. Islands off: Lipara. Circa 412 BC. AE Hexas. (19.31 gms.). Head of Hephaestus right, wearing pilos. Λ I Π; two pellets, above and below. Calciati I-6/1. BMC Sicily-10. Good VF, green and black patina. Rare. (1500)

The earliest Lipari bronzes were struck to the heaviest weight standard in the Greek world. Manganaro (1977) explains this apparent great wealth as the result of plunder taken in raids on the Athenian expedition against Syracuse (415-412 BC). This dates these coins about sixty years earlier than the standard references.

314. Islands off: Lipara. Circa 4th Century BC. AE Uncia. (0.98 gms.). Young Hephaestus seated right on bench, holding hammer and kantharos. Λ·Ι in dotted circle. Calciati I-23, SNG Cop-1093. EF, choice red and green patina. Very rare this nice. (350)

The Lipari islands are a scene of frequent volcanic activity, hence their identification with the workshop of Hephaestus. The islands have also been known since pre-historic times as a source of high quality obsidian, a valuable trade item. The combination of natural resources and sea-faring ability (i.e. piracy) produced a prosperous island community.

MACEDONIA

315. Olynthus. Before 432 BC. Tetrobol. (2.43 gms.). Horse right, tied to Ionic column; flower to left. Ο Λ V Ν, eagle flying right, grasping snake. SNG ANS-464, BMC Macedon-3. VF, rare. (500)

MACEDONIA, Kings of.

316. Alexander III. 336-323 BC. AV Stater. (8.45 gms.). Uncertain Greek mint. Helmeted head of Athena right; serpent on bowl of helmet. ΑΛΕΞΑΝΔΡΟΥ, Nike standing facing left, holding wreath and stylis; monograms in fields. Müller-577. Nice EF. (3500)

317. Alexander III. 336-323 BC. Tetradrachm. (16.78 gms.). Babylon mint. Head of Alexander as Herakles right, wearing lion skin. ΒΑΣΙΛΕΩΣ (in exergue), ΑΛΕΞΑΝΔΡΟΥ, Zeus seated left, holding eagle and sceptre; H in left field, monogram in wreath below throne. Müller-713, SNG Ash-3086. Near EF, small spot of roughness on obverse. (800)

THRACE

319. Black Sea Coast. Olbia. Circa 5th Century BC. AE 23mm. length. (1.31 gms.). Dolphin. ΘΥ on reverse. Dittrich-8. VF, encrustation. Unusual. (225)

ILLYRIA

320. Epidamnos-Dyrrhachium. Circa 350-300 BC. Stater of Corinthian type. (8.61 gms.). Pegasos flying right. Helmeted head of Athena right; club and Δ to left, dolphin to right. BMC Corinth page 101, 10. Nice EF. (800)

EPEIROS

321. Ambrakia. Circa 360-338 BC. Stater of Corinthian type. (8.31 gms.). Pegasos, with curled wing, walking right, A between legs. Helmeted head of Athena left; snake and tortoise to left, Ambrax seated on rock to right. Ravel, (NNM 37)-135, BMC Corinth page 108, 35. Good VF, edge splits, very rare. (2500)

Ravel (page 132) suggests that the small figure of a snake attacking a tortoise symbolizes the elimination of the Aeginetan stater as a competitor with the Corinthian stater as a trade coin. The Aegina "turtl" ceased to be struck around 340 BC. If this is a valid hypothesis, then we have an interesting glimpse of economic warfare of the 4th Century BC!

THESSALY

323. Thessalian League. 196-146 BC. Double Victoriatus. (6.00 gms.). Head of Zeus right, wreath of grain ears. ΘΕΣΣΑΛΩΝ, Athena Itonia advancing right, brandishing spear and shield; magistrates [ME]NEKPATOΥΣ and ΑΛΕΞΑΝΔΡΟΥ. BMC Thessaly -16. Superb EF. (500)

AKARNANIA

324. Echinos? Circa 300-250 BC. Stater of Corinthian type. (8.59 gms.). Pegasos flying left. Helmeted head of Athena right; fish-hook and E to left. cf.BMC Corinth page 124, 1. Choice lustrous EF. Very Rare. (1200)

325. Leukas. Circa 400-330 BC. Stater of Corinthian type. (8.53 gms.). Pegasos, with curled wing, flying right, Λ below. Helmeted head of Athena left; Σ below and grape cluster with leaf to right. BMC Corinth page 129, 48. Nice EF. (1200)

LOKRIS

327. Lokris Opuntia. Circa 369-338 BC. Quarter Stater. (2.73 gms.). Head of Persephone right, wreathed in grain. ΟΠΟΝΤΙΩΝ, Ajax advancing right, nude except for helmet, holding short sword and shield decorated with serpent; kantharos between legs. SNG Cop-50. Toned VF+, vigorous style. (650)

ATTICA

AEGINA

329. After 480 BC. Stater. (12.49 gms.). Sea turtle with T pattern of dots on shell. Incuse skew pattern. Brown, Class 5. SNG Cop. 507. Good VF, a few old digs. Nicely centered. (1250)

CORINTHIA

330. Corinth. Circa 415-387 BC. Stater. (8.55 gms.). Pegasos, with curled wing, walking left. Helmeted head of Athena left; seven dolphins around. Ravel-803(same dies), BMC Corinth-151. Weak EF, rare and unusual. (2250)

331. Corinth. Circa 400-350 BC. Stater. (8.53 gms.). Pegasos flying left. Helmeted head of Athena left; E and rose bud to right. Ravel-997, BMC Corinth-327. Superb EF, die break below head. [SEE COLOR PLATE]. (1200)

333. Corinth. Circa 4th Century BC. Stater. (8.45 gms.). Pegasos flying left. Helmeted head of Athena left; behind, head of griffin facing right. Ravel-, BMC Corinth-, SNG Cop-. Choice toned EF. (750)

The symbol of griffin head right is unrecorded in any of the major collections.

BOSPOROS, Kings of.

334. Eupator. 154-172 AD. EL Stater. (7.83 gms.). 163/164 AD. BACIAEWC EVΠΑΤΟΡΟC, diademed bust of king right. Bare-headed, draped busts of Marcus Aurelius and Lucius Verus confronted; sword between, date below. cf. SGI-5471, BMC Pontus-5. Near VF. (700)

335. Sauromates II. 172-211 AD. EL Stater. (7.66 gms.). 190/191 AD. BACΙAEWC CAVPOMATOV, diademed bust of king right, club before. Bare-headed bust of Commodus right; date (ΖΠV) below. cf. SGI-5475, BMC Pontus-6. Near VF. (800)

MYSIA

337. Cyzicus. Circa 550-475 BC. EL Hecte. (2.64 gms.). Harpy standing left, holding tunny by the tail. Incuse mill-sail pattern. Rosen-452, Von Fritze-74. VF, cruciform bankers mark on obverse. Nicely centered and rare. (2400)

338. Cyzicus. Circa 5th Century BC. EL Twelfth. (1.39 gms.). Gorgon head facing, tunny below. Incuse quartered square. cf. von Fritze-129. VF, well centered, rare. (350)

339. Cyzicus. Circa 5th Century BC. Tritartemorion. (0.57 gms.). Forepart of running boar left, retrograde E on shoulder; tunny to right. Head of roaring lion left in incuse square. cf. BMC Mysia-116. EF, with porosity. Rare denomination, one specimen only in major collections. (200)

340. Pergamene Kingdom. Eumenes II. 197-190 BC. Tetradrachm. (16.75 gms.). Laureate head of Philetarios right. ΦΙΛΕΤΑΙΡΟΥ, Athena Promachus seated left, holding wreath; spear, bow and shield around; stylus and monogram to left. cf. Westermarck, Das Bildnis Des Philetairos Von Pergamon, pl. 14, CXXXVI, CXXXVIII. VF+, broad flan. (1200)

341. Pergamon. Circa 1st Century BC. Cistaphoric Tetradrachm. (12.29 gms.). Cista Mystica with serpent, within ivy wreath. Bow case with two serpents; monogram of Pergamon to left, TH and monogram of Prytanis, or treasurer, above; staff with serpent entwined to right. SNG Cop-440. Nice EF, dark toning obverse. (225)

IONIA

342. Uncertain. Circa 6th century BC. EL 1/96 Stater. (0.12 gms.). Milesian standard. Lion's paw. Incuse punch. cf. Rosen-285, SNG Berry-1033 for similar larger denomination. VF. (100)

343. Persian Satraps. Memnon? Circa 334 BC. Stater of 2 1/2 Sigloi? (14.48 gms.). Persian king running right, holding spear and bow. Irregular incuse with raised markings. SG-6162(Babylonia), BMC Ionia pg.324, 3; SNG von Aulock-7809, MIG-17a(Babylonia). Fine/VF, encrustation and old scratches. Very Rare. (1750)

This coin has been known for decades, with little progress towards a definite identification. The weight seems to fit best in one of the Asia Minor standards, and a type is known with the Greek name Pythagoras. However, many specimens have been found on the eastern borders of the Persian Empire, including several pieces in the Oxus treasure. A.E.M. Johnston, in "The Earliest Greek Map: A New Ionic Coin Type", 1967, attributes it to Ephesos and interprets the reverse design as a depiction of the geographical environs of that city.

However, similar patterned reverses are found on regular Persian sigloi (cf. BMC Persia pl. XXV, 1 and a very clear example on Elsen List 126, #122), and Johnston's novel theory must remain that.

344. Heraklea ad Latmon. Circa 2nd Century BC. Tetradrachm. (16.18 gms.). Head of Athena right, wearing crested helmet decorated with Pegasus, quinriga, cornucopiae, and Nike holding wreath. HPAKAEΩΤΩΝ, club of Herakles; below, two monograms and small Nike with wreath; all in oak wreath. Pozzi-2452, SNG Lockett-2823. Near EF, nice old toning. Rare. (650)

If for nothing else, this coin would be remarkable for the ornate decoration on Athena's helmet.

345. Lebedos. Circa 150 BC. Tetradrachm. (16.39 gms.). Helmeted head of Athena right, wearing an earring of a tiny winged Nike; helmet with triple crests and wreath. ΛΕΒΕΔΙΩΝ, ΑΘΗ ΝΑΙΟΣ below, twin filleted cornucopiae, owl on club between; all in olive wreath. Amandry, Kraay-Mørkholm Essays, pg. 3, 10. Choice EF, lovely old cabinet toning. Rare. (5500)

346. Teos. Circa 470-450 BC. Stater. (12.05 gms.). THION, griffin with curled wings seated right; panther head under raised forepaw. Quadrupartite granulated incuse square. BMC Ionia-19. Choice toned EF. (1000)

LYDIA, Kings of.

347. Uncertain King. Before 560 BC. EL Third Stater. (4.73 gms.). Head of roaring lion right, radiate knob with seven rays on forehead. Double incuse punch. Weidauer-86. Good VF. (1200)

348. Uncertain King. Before 560 BC. EL Third Stater. (4.70 gms.). Head of roaring lion right, radiate knob with four rays on forehead. Double incuse punch. Weidauer-89, Rosen-653. VF. (1100)

349. "Valvel". Early 6th Century BC. EL Hecte. (2.37 gms.). Lion head right, Lydian inscription before. Double incuse punch. cf. Weidauer-105. Good VF, rare early electrum. (2500)

The electrum coins of Lydia with the names of Valvel and Kalil are among the earliest inscribed coins known. Their exact date is still unknown, for no Lydian kings are known with these names. It is possible that the individuals named are private citizens, merchants perhaps, who had the first coins struck for commerce, with the state taking over that function at a later date.

350. Time of Croesus. 560-546 BC. AV Sixth Stater. (1.74 gms.). Heavy standard. Foreparts of lion and bull confronted. Double incuse punch. SG-3413. Fine. Very rare. (1250)

351. Time of Croesus. 560-546 BC. Half Stater. (5.28 gms.). Foreparts of lion and bull confronted. Double incuse punch. BMC Lydia-41, SG-3420. VF, light porosity. (500)

CARIA, Islands off.

352. Rhodos. Circa 304-167 BC. Didrachm. (6.70 gms.). Radiate head of Helios, facing slightly right. P O, rose with bud on stem; magistrate ΕΡΑΣΙΚΛΗΣ, crested helmet to left. SNG Cop-764. EF, die rust obverse. (550)

353. Rhodos. Circa 88-43 BC. Trihemidrachm. (4.21 gms.). Facing radiate head of Helios, turned slightly right. P O, open rose; magistrate ΑΠΟΛΩΝΙΔΑΣ, petasos and caduceus. cf. SNG Cop-868. Choice EF. (450)

PAMPHYLIA

354. Aspendos. Circa 3rd century BC. Stater. (10.45 gms.). Two wrestlers grappling, E between. ΕΣΤΦΕΔΙΥ, slinger standing right; O between legs, triskeles and club to right. SNG Cop-240. Toned good VF, better style than most. (450)

CILICIA

355. Nagidos. Circa 400-380 BC. Obol. (0.64 gms.). N, head of Aphrodite facing. N, ivy-wreathed head of Dionysos facing, turned slightly left. SNG Levante-6. Dark toned EF, scarce. (750)

A miniature numismatic "tour-de-force", with a superb style high-relief facing head on each side of the coin, both fully struck up.

SYRIA

SYRIA, Seleucid Kings of.

358. Seleucus I Nikator. 312-280 BC. Tetradrachm. (17.13 gms.). Susiana mint. c. 310-300 BC. Head of Alexander as Herakles right, wearing lion skin. ΒΑΣΙΛΕΩΣ (in exergue), ΣΕΛΕΥΚΟΥ, Zeus seated left, feet on footstool, holding eagle and sceptre; radiate head of Helios and monogram in left field, M/AP under chair seat. Newell ESM-299, cf. Houghton-1026. Toned VF+, scarce. (650)

359. Seleucus I. 312-280 BC. Drachm. (4.04 gms.). Seleucia on the Tigris. Laureate head of Zeus right. ΒΑΣΙΛΕΩΣ ΣΕΛΕΥΚΟΥ, Athena Promachus in quadriga drawn by horned elephants right; BA monogram to left, anchor and annulet above. Newell, ESM-93, cf. Houghton-926. Toned VF, rare. (800)

Elephants with trunks are common; elephants with horns are scarce. Actually, the horns are a symbol of power, and even of deification, as in certain posthumous portraits of Alexander III. Seleucus also issued coins with a horned horse; the suggestion is of divine influence behind Seleucid cavalry victories which employed both horses and elephants.

361. Alexander I Balas. 150-145 BC. Tetradrachm. (13.66 gms.). Tyre mint. 148/147 BC. Diademed and draped bust of Alexander right. ΒΑΣΙΛΕΩΣ ΑΛΕΞΑΝΔΡΟΥ, eagle standing left on prow, palm branch behind; club with monogram of Tyre to left, ΕΞΡ and monogram to right. Year 165. Houghton-746, Newell, (NNM 73)-66. Choice toned EF. (750)

PHOENICIA

363. Dora. Time of Nero. AE 21mm. (12.10 gms.). 66/67 AD. Laureate head of Doros right. ΔWPITWN, Astarte standing facing right, holding rudder(?) on standard and cornucopiae. Year 130. cf.BMC Phoenicia-5, Hedin-239. Nice VF+, smooth dark green patina, some removable encrustation. A very rare city-coin in this condition. (550)

Dora was a small sea-port on the coast of ancient Palestine, just north of the city of Caesarea. Although settled for centuries, its coinage history is remarkably short. A very few tetradrachms were struck there by Ptolemy V, and then a series of bronzes in the 1st century BC-1st Century AD, many with the head of Doros, son of Poseidon. After that, Dora seems to have faded away, most likely due to economic competition from its large neighbor. Dora struck its last coins in the early 3rd Century AD and was apparently abandoned permanently soon after.

JUDAEA, Kings of.

364. Agrippa II. 56-96 AD. AE 24mm. (10.21 gms.). 84/85 AD. AVTOKPA TITOC (KAI) CAP CEBACT, laureate head of Titus right. ETO ΚΔ(?) BA/ ΑΓΡΙ ΠΠΑ, Nike walking right, holding wreath and palm. cf.Hardin-86, AJC II-unlisted date. Good VF, heavy green patina. Very Rare. (350)

Meshorer records no coins of Agrippa II struck in the name of Titus in regnal year 24 (84/85 AD). This coin is clearly of Titus and while the date is poorly engraved, the second digit can be most readily resolved as Δ.

365. Agrippa II. 56-96 AD. AE 22mm. (7.93 gms.). 89/90 AD. ΔΟΜΙΤΙΑΝΟΚ ΚΑΙΚΑΡ, laureate head of Domitian right. ΑΓΡΙΠΠΑ ΕΤΟ ΚΘ, Nike standing right, inscribing shield resting on knee. Year 29. cf.Hardin-93, AJC II-48var. Strong VF, heavy green patina. Exceptional condition for an Agrippa II bronze. (500)

Agrippa II was in a very real sense a king without a country. Upon the death of his father, Agrippa I, in 44 AD, he was bypassed for succession, and Judaea became a Roman province ruled by a governor, or procurator. Intense lobbying in Rome finally led to his proclamation as king in 56 AD, but he still wielded little influence in Judaea; the situation was not changed by his vigorous support of Rome during the Jewish War, beginning in 66 AD. Despised by his subjects and ignored by the Romans, Agrippa spent the last thirty years of his life a non-entity, living in virtual exile in Rome. The rare coinage of Agrippa II was probably little more than a token currency for a king in name only.

366. "Judaea Capta". Domitian. 81-96 AD. AE 22mm. (10.43 gms.). Caesarea mint. DOMITIANVS CAES AVG (GERMANICVS), laureate head left. Minerva walking left, holding spear and shield and crowning trophy left. Hardin-188, AJC II-7, Mesh-243. Choice VF+, smooth dark green patina, some removable encrustation. Rare in this condition. (300)

CHARACENE, Kings of.

367. Theonesios I. Circa 25-19 BC. Tetradrachm. (11.77 gms.). Diademed head right. ΒΑΣΙΛΕΩΣ ΘΙΟΝΗΣΙΟΣ ΣΩΤΗΡΟΣ (KAI ΕΥΕΡΓΕΤΟΥ), nude Herakles seated left on rock, resting club on knee; monogram above, X below arm, date in exergue (off-flan). SG-6183, BMC Arabia pl. LIV, 4. Toned VF, double-striking on reverse. Very rare. (650)

Located in modern day Iraq, Characene broke from the Seleucid Empire in the 2nd Century BC, and remained independent until conquered by the Sassanians in 227 AD. Only fleeting references to these kings survive from ancient Greek and Roman historians, and much of our knowledge must come from the coinage. Theonesios I is placed around 40 BC in many numismatic references, but as long ago as 1922 Hill suggested dating him twenty years later (Hill, NNM 14, pg. 8). Nicole-Pierre in an article in RN VI, 1978, gives dates of 25-19 BC for Theonesios I.

PARTHIA, Kings of.

368. Mithradates II. 123-88 BC. Drachm. (4.11 gms.). Rhagae mint. Bearded bust left wearing diadem, sea-horse torque. ΒΑΣΙΛΕΩΣ ΒΑΣΙΛΕΩΣ (M)ΕΓΑΛΟΥ ΑΡΣΑΚΟΥ ΕΠΙΦΑΝΟΥΣ, seated archer. Sell-27.1. Choice toned EF, light mark on cheek. (225)

369. Osroes I. 109-129 AD. Drachm. (3.89 gms.). Ecbatana mint. Bearded bust left wearing diadem, hair in tight circular bunches. Degenerate legends around seated archer; A monogram. Sell-80.1. Superb EF, steel-gray toning. (750)

370. Vologases V. 191-208 AD. Drachm. (3.58 gms.). Ecbatana mint. Bearded bust facing wearing diadem, hair in tight circular bunches. Degenerate legends around seated archer; A monogram. Sell-86.3. Choice EF, steel-gray toning. Rare. (1000)

371. Artabanus IV. 216-224 AD. Drachm. (3.57 gms.). Ecbatana mint. Bearded bust left wearing tiara with decorated crest and ear flaps; Pehlvi letters AR behind head. Degenerate legends around seated archer; A monogram without dot. Sell-89.1var. Superb Mint State. Classic late Parthian style. (550)

EGYPT, Ptolemaic Kings of.

372. Ptolemy II. 285-246 BC. Tetradrachm. (14.22 gms.). Diademed head of Ptolemy I right. ΠΤΟΛΕΜΑΙΟΥ ΒΑΣΙΛΕΩΣ, eagle standing left on thunderbolt, monogram to left. SNG Cop-88, BMC Ptolemies page 17, 34. Nicely toned VF+, old graffito on obverse. (400)

373. Ptolemy III Euergetes. 246-221 BC. AV Tetradrachm. (13.80 gms.). Conjoined busts of Ptolemy I and Berenike I right, ΘΕΩΝ above. Conjoined busts of Ptolemy II and Arsinoe II right, ΑΔΕΛΦΩΝ above, shield to left. Svor.-604, SNG Cop-137. Near EF, problem free. [SEE COLOR PLATE]. (4500)

376. Ptolemy IV Philopator. 222-204 BC. \textsterling 42mm. (68.84 gms.). Head of Zeus-Ammon right. ΠΤΟΛΕΜΑΙΟΥ ΒΑΣΙΛΕΩΣ, eagle standing left on thunderbolt; cornucopiae to left, Δ I between legs. SNG Cop-199. VF+, brown patina with red highlights. (250)

378. Ptolemy IX Soter. First Reign. 116-106 BC. Tetradrachm. (14.06 gms.). 116/115 BC. Diademed and draped bust of Ptolemy I right, wearing aegis. ΠΤΟΛΕΜΑΙΟΥ ΒΑΣΙΛΕΩΣ, eagle standing left on thunderbolt; LB ΠΑ in fields. Svor.-1660, SNG Cop-348. EF, excellent style and metal for this late period. (350)

ROMAN REPUBLICAN

379. Anonymous. 275-270 BC. \textsterling Sextans. (53.03 gms.). Helmeted head of one of the Dioscuri right; two pellets behind. Same type, but head left. Cr.-18/5, Syd-19, T/V-12. Good VF, black patina. Rare. (1250)

380. Anonymous. 217-215 BC. \textcent Sextans. (25.36 gms.). Head of Mercury right, wearing winged petaso; • above. ROMA, prow of galley right, superstructure decorated with club; • below. Syd-85, Cr-38/5. Choice EF, smooth dark green patina. [SEE COLOR PLATE]. (750)

382. L. Papius. 79 BC. Serrate denarius. (3.85 gms.). Head of Juno Sospita right; chair(?) behind. L. PAPI, Gryphon leaping right; curule chair(?). Papia-1, Syd-773, Cr-384/1(control mark 34). VF+. (200)

383. L. Roscius Fabatus. 64 BC. Serrate denarius. (3.94 gms.). Head of Juno Sospita right; shield. Maiden facing serpent of Lanuvium; spear. Roscia-3, Syd-915, Cr-412/1(control mark 197). Toned EF, weakness reverse. (250)

ROMAN IMPERATORIAL

JULIUS CAESAR

385. 46 BC. AV Aureus. (7.88 gms.). C CAESAR COS.TER, veiled head of Vesta right. A HIRTIVS P R, lituus, jug and ax. Syd-1017, Cr.-466/1. Choice EF, obverse softly struck. (3500)
[SEE COLOR PLATE].

Caesar is shown wearing the veil of the Pontifex Maximus and the corona aurea of the triumphant general. It was the accumulation of such offices and honors that offended and disturbed his opponents and led to his assassination later in the year.

387. 44 BC. Denarius. (3.70 gms.). CLEMENTIA CAESARIS, tetrastyle temple, globe in pediment. P. SEPULLIVS MACER, horseman riding right, second free horse behind; palm and wreath to left. RSC-44, Syd-1076, Cr.-480/21. VF, some striking weakness. Very rare. (1000)

Probably struck shortly after Caesar's death. The temple dedicated to the Clemency of Caesar was decreed by the Senate, but apparently never completed. The horseman, or desultor, represents the Parilian games, held in April of 44 BC to celebrate the victory at Munda and also honor Caesar's memory. The event depicted is not fully understood, but seems to have involved one horseman guiding two horses in a race, possibly changing horses in mid-race.

BRUTUS

388. 43-42 BC. Denarius. (3.76 gms.). BRVTVS below ax, simpulum and knife. LENTVLVS SPINT, capis and lituus. RSC-6 Syd-1310, Cr.-500/7. Near EF, scarce. (1350)
L. Cornelius Lentulus Spinter and a relative, L. Cornelius Lentulus Crus were members of a distinguished Roman patrician family. Both took active part in the campaign against the threat to the established Roman order embodied by Caesar and Octavian, first with Pompey and then Cassius and Brutus. Crus was killed after the defeat of Pompey at Pharsalus in 48 BC, while the fate of Spinter after Philippi is uncertain.

389. 43-42 BC. Denarius. (3.93 gms.). COSTA LEG, laureate head of Apollo right. BRVTVS IMP, trophy of Thracian arms. RSC-64, Syd-1296, Cr.-506/2. Lightly toned EF, rare. (1750)

OCTAVIAN AND JULIUS CAESAR

394. 43 BC. AV Aureus. (7.51 gms.). Gallic mint. C. CAESAR. COS. PONT. AVG, bare head right of Octavian. C. CAESAR. DICT. PERP. PONT. MAX, laureate head of Caesar right. Syd-1321, Cr-490/2. Fine, slightly rough surfaces. Extremely rare. [SEE COLOR PLATE]. (8000)

An early issue of Octavian in honor of his uncle, and the only possible issue to obtain a portrait of Caesar in gold. Approximately less than two dozen specimens known.

ROMAN IMPERIALAUGUSTUS. 27BC-14AD.

395. AV Aureus. (7.91 gms.). 13-14 AD. Lugdunum. CAESAR AVGSTVS DIVI F PATER PATRIAE, laureate head right. TI CAESAR AVG F TR POT, Tiberius in triumphal quadriga right. RIC I-221(R2). Near EF, bold portrait, much luster. [SEE COLOR PLATE]. (4500)

The question of who would follow Augustus as Emperor became more urgent as he grew older, and his choices pre-deceased him; first Agrippa in 12 BC, and then Agrippa's sons, Gaius and Lucius. Although Tiberius, his stepson (and son-in-law), would have seemed a logical choice, with an admirable military and administrative record, Augustus apparently did not consider him a worthy successor until late in his reign. This coin makes note of his decision.

396. Denarius. (3.60 gms.). Uncertain mint. Laureate head right. AVGSTVS below capricorn holding globe and rudder, cornucopiae on back. RSC-23a, RIC I-541(R2). Toned VF. A rare denarius of Augustus, with no definite date or mint assigned yet. (300)

410. AV Aureus. (7.57 gms.). DIVVS CLAUDIUS. Struck by NERO. October-December 54 AD. DIVVS CLAVDIVS AVGVSTVS, laureate head left. EX SC, Ornamented quadriga right. RIC-4(R3). Fine, a few minor nicks. Very rare type. (2500)

Claudius was the first emperor after Augustus to be proclaimed divine. Remarkable, when one considers that Nero held his step-father in contempt, the Senators resented Claudius' high-handed treatment of them, and the people were indifferent. The driving force for his proclamation was Agrippina, niece and wife of Claudius, and mother of Nero. She coveted public honors, and as the widow of a divine emperor, she would become high priestess of his cult. But she did not have long to cherish her new status, for quite soon she fell out of favor with her son, and the cult of Divine Claudius was superseded by the glorification of the living God-Emperor, Nero.

GALBA. 68-69 AD.

426. AV Aureus. (7.13 gms.). IMP SER GALBA AVG, bare headed bust right. SPQR/ OB CS in wreath. RIC I-163(R2). VF, slight die flaw under chin, but an impressive portrait nonetheless. [SEE COLOR PLATE]. (7000)

Much can be seen of Galba's character from his portrait. Although a highly capable general and governor, his stern and conservative manner could not cope with the politics of high office. He alienated the army by refusing to distribute the customary gifts upon his succession, and never learned to deal with the Senate. His assassination followed within a few months, at the instigation of his erstwhile ally, Otho.

428. \textae Sestertius. (24.90 gms.). October 68 AD. SER. GALBA. IMP. CAESAR. AVG. TR P, laureate head right. SPQR/ O B/ CIVES/ SERVATOS in oak wreath. RIC I-385. VF, dark brown patina, some roughness. Rare. (700)

OTHO. 69 AD.

429. AV Aureus. (7.15 gms.). IMP M OTHO CAESAR AVG TRP, bewigged bust right, draped. SECVRITAS P R, Securitas standing left, holding wreath and sceptre. RIC I-7(R2). Near VF, rare. [SEE COLOR PLATE]. (9000)

Otho was a vain, effeminate man who grasped for a high position he was not suited for by any standards. Spurned by his friend Nero and exiled from Rome to Spain, Otho joined the camp of Galba in his revolt. He anticipated being named Galba's successor, but Galba doubted his stability and chose Piso instead. An infuriated Otho formed a conspiracy and had both murdered. Three months later, unable to rally sufficient support against Vitellius, he followed in Nero's footsteps and committed suicide.

430. Denarius. (3.37 gms.). IMP OTHO CAESAR AVG TR P, bewigged head right. SECVR TAS P R, Securitas standing left, holding wreath and sceptre. RSC-15, RIC I-10. Toned EF. [SEE COLOR PLATE]. (4000)

VITELLIUS. 69 AD.

431. AV Aureus. (7.11 gms.). A VITELLIVS GERM IMP AVG TRP, laureate head right. LIBERI. IMP. GERM. AVG., confronted busts of the children of Vitellius. RIC I-100(R2). Near VF, old cabinet toning. Very rare. (5000)

An ironic reverse type that might imply that Vitellius had dynastic ambitions. Yet, he did little more during his months of undisputed rule in Rome than indulge himself in a continuous round of celebrations and partying. His attempts to strengthen his position and defenses were half-hearted and ineffective, and when forces loyal to Vespasian arrived in Italy in July, his army was scattered at Cremona. Vitellius was captured, publicly humiliated and executed. His wife and children survived to claim his body, but nothing else is known of their fate.

432. Denarius. (3.29 gms.). A VITELLIVS GERM IMP AVG TR P, laureate head right. XV VIR SACR FAC, Tripod-lebes with dolphin protome, raven below. RSC-111(this coin), RIC I-109. Toned EF, few light scratches on reverse. (2400)
The quindecimviri sacris faciundis was the college of priests responsible for the interpretation of the Sibylline Books during times of crisis. Consisting of two members in the time of the early kings of Rome, by Imperial times it had expanded to fifteen. Vitellius' election to this body gave the force of prophecy to his proclamations of peace and an end to civil strife.

433. Denarius. (3.41 gms.). A VITELLIVS GERMAN IMP TR P, laureate head right. IVPPITER VICTOR, Jupiter seated left, holding small Victory and sceptre. RSC-44, RIC I-75. Toned near EF, a few letters off flan. (1400)

434. Denarius. (3.51 gms.). A VITELLIVS GERM IMP AVG TRP, laureate head right. LIBERTAS RESTITVTA, Libertas standing facing right, holding pileus and sceptre. RSC-47, RIC I-105. Near EF. Rare. (1000)

VESPASIAN. 69-79 AD.

435. AV Aureus. (7.22 gms.). 77-78 AD. IMP CAESAR VESPASIANVS AVG, laureate head right. COS VIII, Vespasian standing left, holding spear and parazonium, being crowned by Victory, holding wreath and palm. RIC II-105. VF/Fine, choice portrait, scarce reverse type. (2250)

Vespasian was the first emperor whose ascension to supreme power was based solely on his military prowess. His claim was not based on family, like the Julio-Claudians, or on long familiarity with the established powers, like the emperors of 68-69 AD. He claimed Rome because he had the best legions on his side, and the theme of the victorious general is a common one on his coinage and his sons that followed him.

437. Denarius. (3.52 gms.). 72-73 AD. Antioch mint. IMP CAES VESP AVG [PM COS] IIII, laureate head right. NEP RED, Neptune, nude, standing left, holding acrostolium (prow decoration) and sceptre, foot on globe. RSC-274, RIC II-361, BMC II-506(same obverse die). Superb EF, short flan characteristic of the eastern mints. Very rare. (750)

438. Denarius. (3.60 gms.). 73 AD. IMP CAES VESP AVG CENS, laureate head right. PONTIF MAXIM, Vespasian seated right on curule chair, holding sceptre and olive branch. RSC-387, RIC II-65. Near EF, good portrait, subdued toning. (575)

439. Denarius. (3.50 gms.). 77-78 AD. IMP CAESAR VESPASIANVS AVG, laureate head right. Pair of yoked oxen left; COS VIII in exergue. RSC-133a, RIC II-107. VF. (300)

The pulvinar is a symbol of expiatory sacrifices called lectisternia, made after a great calamity. Rome had seen two recent disasters; the eruption of Vesuvius in 79 AD, and a great fire that destroyed the temple of Jupiter Capitolinus the next year.

444. Denarius. (3.45 gms.). 80 AD. IMP TITVS CAES VESPASIAN AVG PM, laureate head right. TR P IX IMP XV COS VIII PP, garlanded tripod surmounted by dolphin. RSC-321, RIC I-27a. Choice EF, steel-gray toning. (800)

Well-modeled portrait. Rare. (1500)

The German "triumphs" of Domitian are a fine example of the way to win a war; declare victory and go home. Domitian did start his reign with a creditable victory, when Agricola completed the conquest of Britain. Shortly thereafter, however, the emperor grew suspicious of his greatest general and dismissed him. From then on the armies of Rome were commanded by non-entities, or worse, Domitian himself. Defeats followed in Germany, Moesia, Pannonia and Dacia, and complete disaster was only averted by payment of massive tribute to the native tribes. This state of affairs did not prevent Domitian from issuing victory commemoratives in the spirit of his more martial father and brother.

453. 96-161 AD. AE Quadrans. (2.10 gms.). Diademed and draped bust of Venus right. S C, Dove walking right. RIC II-24. EF, choice green patina. (200)

The portrait of Venus somewhat resembles Faustina Senior, wife of Antoninus Pius.

NERVA. 96-98 AD.

454. AV Aureus. (7.60 gms.). 97 AD. IMP NERVA CAES AVG PM TRP COS III PP, laureate head right. CONCORDIA EXERCITVVM, clasped hands. RIC II-14. Nice VF+. (7500)

This coin was issued on the occasion of Trajan's appointment as successor to Nerva. The Senate was the prime mover behind Nerva's accession to the throne, and he was held in small regard by the army. The elevation of Trajan, a popular general, resolved the differences between army and emperor, hence the reverse type proclaiming harmony with the army.

Constantine, before his championing of the Christian belief, promoted the cult of Sol. As the story goes, Constantine had a vision while visiting a sanctuary of Apollo in Gaul in 310 AD, in which Sol presented him with laurel wreaths crowned with triple X's, symbolizing a long reign. Constantine ruled thirty years, and retained some symbols of sun worship in the official iconography even after his ostensible conversion.

Berk describes a half follis with this monogram; Sear and Hahn note only a plain Chi-Rho on the follis and half follis. The forked base on the Chi-Rho is very clear.

547. \textsterling Follis. (22.64 gms.). Cyzicus. 541/542 AD. DN IVSTINI ANVS PP AVG, helmeted and cuirassed bust facing, holding globus cruciger. Large M, cross above; year 15, •B•/ CON. SB-207 var, MIB-120b. VF, brown patina. (200)

Hahn dates this issue to a one year period (537/538). A curious feature of this type is the frequent appearance of a reverse cross with cross-bar cut so low it appears to be upside down. Certainly nothing sinister is intended?

JUSTIN II. 565-578 AD.

Two excellent examples of what Hahn calls "moneta militaris imitativa". They form a clearly defined series spanning the reigns of Justin II-Maurice, and are not well understood. Although bearing mint marks of Constantinople and Nicomedia (as well as Cyzicus and Antioch) the style does not match anything from those mints, and there are obverse die-links between mints. The style of the portraits does resemble some issues of Rome and other Italian mints, and that and the fact that these two pieces came from Sicily may be significant. Could these coins have been struck for troops from the eastern provinces stationed in Italy and Sicily? Were there restrictions, either official or popular, that prevented these troops from returning home with coinage from the western half of the empire? If so, an expedient way to handle the problem would be to pay them in coinage struck at a temporary mint in the name of one of the eastern mints.

MAURICE TIBERIUS. 582-602 AD.

560. AV Solidus. (4.40 gms.). Constantinople. 602 AD. DN MAVR Tlb PP AVG, Maurice enthroned facing, crowned and wearing consular garb, holding mappa and cross. VICTORI A AVGG A, Victory standing facing, holding Chi-Rho headed staff and globus cruciger; CONOB in exergue. SB-474, MIB pl. 17, 2(this coin). Near EF, extremely rare. (4500)

Issued at the time of Maurice's second consulship, a few months before his overthrow and murder by Focas in November 602.

561. \textsterling Follis. (12.88 gms.). Constantinople. 600/601 AD. DN mAVRIC TIbeR PP AVG, helmeted and cuirassed bust facing, holding globus cruciger. Large M, cross above; year 19, B/ CON. SB-494, Berk-402, MIB-67b. VF, dark green patina, some encrustation. (75)

562. \textsterling Half Follis. (6.31 gms.). Antioch. 584/585 AD. Blundered Tiberius legend, crowned and draped bust facing, holding mappa and eagle-tipped sceptre. Large XX, cross above; year 3, R. SB-534, Berk-463, DOC-176. Nice VF, black patina. Excellent facing portrait. (75)

The consignor calls it a "finch-tipped sceptre". The eagle is not what you would call intimidating.

FOCAS. 602-610 AD.

563. AV Solidus. (4.39 gms.). Constantinople. Officina H. 607-610 AD. dN FOCAS PER AVC, crowned bust facing, holding globus cruciger. The 3/4 follis of Constantine IV is extremely rare. This coin may suggest that they were quickly restruck into half follis. A choice 3/4 follis would bring $750+; anyone who can figure out how to "unstrike" a coin stands to make a tidy profit on this piece!

JUSTINIAN II. Second Reign. 705-711 AD.

599. 10th Century AD. \AA Follis. (9.17 gms.). Contemporary counterfeit. (+EMMA) NOU, IC XC, nimbrate bust of Christ facing, holding Gospels. +IhSU/ SXISTOI B/ XOTLNEXI/ EIΓΧΑΙΤ(approximately). Type of SB-1793. VF, rough green patina. (75)

Style is very good, as good as the official issue, but the reverse legend is incoherent. Interesting.

600. Class I. Attributed to Nicephorus III. 1078-1081 AD. \AA Follis. (4.75 gms.). Constantinople. IC XC, nimbrate facing bust of Christ, holding Gospels. Ornate Latin cross, flanked by crescents and floral decorations. SB-1889, Berk-962. VF, glossy black patina. Well struck for this issue. (100)

ISAAC II. 1185-1195 AD.

601. \AA Tetarteron. (2.98 gms.). Constantinople. MHP ΘV, Mary standing in orans position, head of Christ on cloak. ICA/AK/IO/C ΔEC/ΠIO/T/HC, Isaac standing facing, holding akakia and sceptre, hand of God above. SB-2004, Hendy pl. 21, 8. Left edge flat, but rest is clear VF, scarce this nice. (75)
